

So-Called Honeymoon of Press and President Long Since Ended

WASHINGTON — Recent deluges of printer's ink over the supposed satanic success of the Roosevelt Administration in swaying the press, and largely a tempest in a teapot.

Press relations under the New Deal have been about the same as those under any other recent administration, with two exceptions:

1. Roosevelt has been a little more skilful in doing what every other president has striven to do—win the favor of the White House correspondents.
2. The New Deal has hired an unusual number of newspapermen, but for the most part, they have been efficient, faithful government servants, serving as fact-finders rather than propagandists—distributors.

Unquestionably the early days of the New Deal were marked by a honeymoon between press and President. To a certain extent this is true of every new administration. It was particularly true of Roosevelt because news was breaking faster than at any other time since the World War.

A deluge of news is the best way to keep the press happy. It is also the best way to prevent scandals from being unearthed. When reporters are rushed to death with such momentous events as the United States going off the gold standard, they do not have time to ferret out anything else. And their managing editors would not have the space to use it even if they did.

That was why the CCC kit-bag story slipped by with very meagre repercussions. So much else was happening in the Spring of 1933. However, those honeymoon days are now over.

Between Roosevelt and the press as a whole there is a new atmosphere. Press conferences are no longer the love-feasts they once were. Barbed questions are shot at the President—usually skilfully parried. Background information no longer is given so freely. Some reporters, tired of the good-natured perfunctory which is the chief material exuded from the conferences, no longer attend. There was a time when they could not afford to be absent.

This attitude, it should be emphasized, is that of the press as a whole. It is not true of the little group of reporters closest to the White House.

Happy Family

This group has become almost a part of the President's entourage. Its motto is "The President Can Do No Wrong."

Naturally this is a great boon to any President. The reporters who cover the White House write for several million people whereas the average newspaperman writes for thousands. They are the machine gunners of journalism—and Roosevelt knows this.

He also knows their first names, invites them to dinner frequently, gives them entrée to the White House at any and all times. Mrs. Roosevelt visits them when they are sick. Sometimes she drops in casually to see their children. They are a part of the official family.

As a result, they worship the Roosevelt family with a ferocity that is understandable but that cannot help but influence their work.

This is a relationship to which every President aspires. Calvin Coolidge got it to a considerable extent. So did Warren Harding. Hoover did not. Roosevelt has achieved it more successfully than any of these—but only with the small group which covers the White House.

With the press in general he has not.

BUTLER HEADS NEW CAMPAIGN TO PAY BONUS

Support of All Who Carried Guns Urged By Advocates

"STUNG ENOUGH"

Fear Patman Bill Veto to Win Support

WASHINGTON, May 21—Bonus forces, fearful of defeat on the Patman bill, today mapped a new campaign for cashing the bonus and called defiantly for the support of every man who ever carried a gun for his government.

Major General Smedley D. Butler, ex-marine stormy petrel, was called in and volunteered his services in the formation of a new veterans organization to push the issue.

New National Unit

Sitting in the office of the senate bonus leader, Senator Thomas (D) Oklahoma, Butler outlined plans for a national unit dedicated to the sole object of securing payment of the soldiers' adjusted compensation certificates.

"The soldiers have been stung enough, and I think they're ready to organize and fight for their rights, politically and every other way," said Butler.

WASHINGTON, May 21—Fighting a desperate battle to save the NRA, the administration today was ready to abandon codes for local business employing a total of from 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 workers.

The house ways and means committee, which is considering the senate NRA extension resolution, also considered other elaborate reform plans outlined by Donald R. Richberg, NRA head.

Despite these concessions, Richberg demanded an NRA extension bill which would preserve most of the present powers of NRA over businesses said to affect interstate commerce.

The conflict developing between senate and house over NRA was emphasized after Senators Nye Continued On Page Eight

Davey Forces Seeking Approval of Issue

Members of the House finance committee were unexpectedly ordered back to the capital Tuesday afternoon presumably to reconsider the Davis Senate bill appropriating $3,000,000 from the state treasury for the aid of the parochial schools.

Clark K. Hunsicker, Pickaway-co representative in the assembly, was notified by telegram Tuesday morning to report for the meeting and that "no excuses for not attending would be accepted."

Julian Schweller, Fort Jennings Democrat, is chairman of the finance committee.

Failed by One Vote

Twice the same committee has refused to report the bill out and recommend its passage by the lower house, the senate having already approved it. On the last roll call the measure came within one vote of receiving enough support to be reported out.

As one of the bills on the Davey legislative program, passage of the parochial school bill has been the object of a concerted drive by administration House leaders.

It is believed failure to put the parochial bill to a test on the floor of the House has held up calling the Traxler-Kiefer bill establishing a foundation program for public schools for another vote.

COLUMBUS, May 21—An appeal for more stringent immigration laws was made here today by former State Senator W. A. Clark of Urbana, chairman of the legislative committee of the National Council, Junior Order of United American Mechanics.

ler foreman; Pickaway-twp road, Sam McKenzie foreman; Perry-twp road, W. B. Porter foreman, and Circleville-twp road, John Groeno foreman.

Notified to Report

All relief workers have been notified by their foreman when they are to report for work.

In the meantime, Mr. Coffey and his office aides have been working diligently trying to "clear the decks" for actual relief work. About 250 orders for food amounting to $2 each were dispensed as emergency orders Monday afternoon by the director and his force. More were being dispensed Tuesday in an effort to provide all relief families the necessities of life.

"The food orders we are giving now," Mr. Coffey said, "will tide the families over until our system is installed and their checks for work relief are available."

As soon as the office work lets up a little Mr. Coffey plans to visit each project with Harry Griner, FERA engineer, to learn just what is being done in the way of work relief.

He urged that city, county and townships develop worthy projects so men heading relief families can continue to earn a living for their families through work projects. It is necessary that sponsors of projects provide money for materials while the FERA furnishes the labor.

For Works Projects

The commissioners have urged that as much of the money as possible be allotted to the county be spent in work relief instead of direct relief.

Mr. Coffey and the commissioners met for a short time Monday afternoon and briefly discussed the relief question with both pledging co-operation.

COLUMBUS, May 21—About 341,000 of the approximately 1,120,000 persons on relief in Ohio are employable, Charles C. Stillman, federal relief administrator for Ohio, estimated here today.

The estimate is based upon data that is being compiled at state relief headquarters in connection with the state-wide occupational classification survey now being conducted by relief authorities.

Of the 341,000 employables, Stillman said, about 50,000 are working on the 2,325 FERA work projects now in operation throughout the state.

250,000 To Work

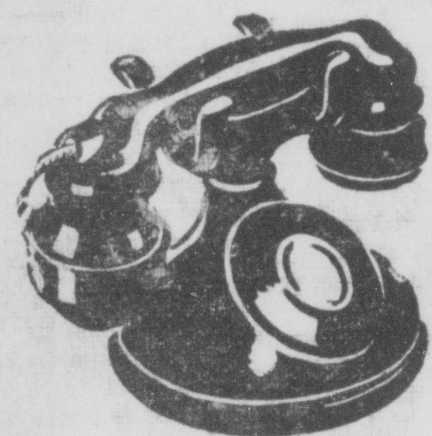

"The Ohio relief administration is prepared to put about 250,000 'employables' to work when further details of the enlarged work relief program are completed at Washington and additional work projects in the state are approved," Stillman said.

"We have ready for approval about 3,225 new work projects which, if authorized, would involve the expenditure of approximately $90,000,000 of relief funds in Ohio."

Miss Sally Simpson,

U. S. A., MAin 1935

The modern American girl—of course she will live longer than a woman of any former generation, according to dull statistics. But there is something even more important to her than statistics. That is her chance of enjoying a life free from drudgery!

Over our entire land one out of two girls of high school age attend school. While in Europe, only one out of ten have that privilege. Compared to her foreign cousin, Miss Sally Simpson, U. S. A., has great fortune as her birthright.

For example, Miss Sally Simpson, U. S. A., has a far greater chance of living in a home with running water. After a busy day of play or work she may seek relaxation in the bathtub, known the world over as the American luxury. And when the Boy Friend wants a date he has almost one in two chances of reaching her by telephone. For Miss Sally Simpson, in any other country, the convenience of a home telephone is limited to one in eight.

In America this young lady has one it, one-and-a-half chances of enjoying the use of an automobile. But her most fortunate foreign cousin has to be content with less than one automobile to every six families.

Miss Sally Simpson, U. S. A., may find two thirds of the homes provided with electric devices. Her foreign cousin can have only one such opportunity in five. If her party dress needs a hasty pressing, 97 per cent of American wired homes possess electric irons. Of the wired homes in the next nearest foreign country only 41 per cent have electric irons.

Merchants and manufacturers are all suitors of Miss Sally Simpson, U. S. A. Her modern and sensible tastes alter styles and bring innovations more certainly than the whims of royal princesses in days gone-by. Then, only girls born to the purple had even one-tenth the luxuries which Miss Sally Simpson, U. S. A., can count part of her everyday life.

She has her favorite lipsticks and powders, her favorite silk stockings and attractive clothes, her favorite shopping places. Her word bears weight in family decisions on purchases of household conveniences, automobiles or vacation trips. She has a decided liking for newspaper advertising as a reliable source of what and where to buy.

In a land where freedom of choice gives such unusual opportunities to Miss Sally Simpson, it is not surprising that she is held in more esteem than elsewhere. She may not be born to the purple in the old-time sense. Even so, bath tubs and bath soap, smart clothes and countless sundry commodities are the American equivalent to purple robes.

Yet, without the popular demand created by advertising, all these things would be as unheard of here as they are to so many of her foreign cousins. Miss Sally Simpson's reliance on American advertising, more than any other force, has given her all the things which make life so full and so pleasant.

MORE DEATHS ARE ADDED TO SOUTH'S TOLL

Hundreds of Families Homeless With Rivers Running Rampant After Storm.

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 21.—With three more deaths added to the list of flood and windstorm fatalities in the southland, rampaging rivers in Louisiana and Oklahoma today inflicted heavy property damage and suffering to hundreds of homeless families.

Deluges of rain swelled the Red river to flood stage in Louisiana, driving hundreds of farm families to higher ground in the Shreveport farm area. An inspection of the flood area was directed by Gov. O. K. Allen. The Arkansas river threatened to flood a wide area near Lavaca, Ark.

Three persons perished as tornado winds swung across three states. Two were killed near Midland City, Ala., while a third died in Mississippi of storm injuries. Eighteen others were dead in the storm area of Texas and lower Oklahoma.

Nearly 600 refugees crowded a tent colony just above the Oklahoma City lowlands where they sought shelter to escape the rampaging North Canadian river.

Property damage in the southwest storm area was estimated at nearly $3,000,000. Floods had washed out bridges, damaged highways and railroad rights of way and covered thousands of acres of rich farm land.

Girl Scout News

Circleville Girl Scout troop No. 4 held its regular meeting Friday, May 17, in the basement of the Presbyterian church.

Miss Bertha Valentine had charge of the meeting as Mrs. Robinson was unable to be present for most of the meeting. After the business session, the park campaign was discussed and the enthusiasm was surely there. We played several games and it was announced that all the troops would get together for a Scout Sing on Monday after school. After short patrol corners, we closed with taps.

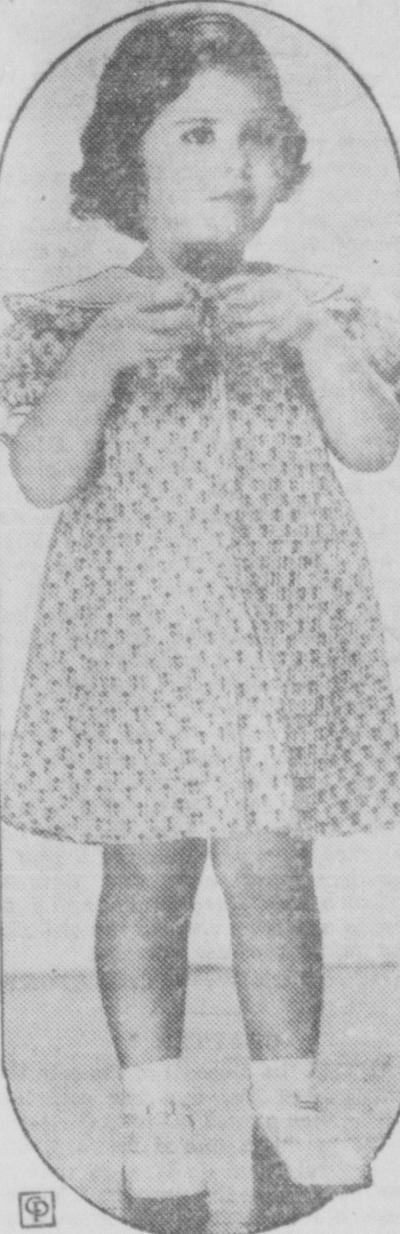

Scribe, Ruth Robinson

"It's a fine thing to sing" was the keynote of the Girl Scout Sing held in the basement of the Presbyterian church on Monday afternoon. Mrs. Karl Herrmann had charge of the meeting. The hour passed quickly in the singing of old and new songs, discussion of the prospective city park, and an interesting nature talk on the subject of "Bees," by William Reid. The scouts closed their meeting with the singing of "The Star-Spangled Banner" and taps.

Girl Scout Troop Number 5 met in the yard at the High School Building Saturday afternoon. After holding a brief business session we spent the rest of the time practicing for our investiture ceremony. A representative of a candy company presented us all with samples of suckers. Dolly Madison, Scribe.

Glen Gray's Band At Olentangy Park

Olentangy Park, Columbus, opens its full-time season Saturday, May 25th, with an imposing program of many new and novel amusements.

Glen Gray and his famous Casa Loma orchestra will appear at the park Sunday, May 26th. The Casa Loma band with Walter O'Keefe as master of ceremonies gained great popularity on the Caravan program—one of the season's most talked of national network successes.

Under the personal management of Jimmy Peppe, for years conductor of dances at Valley Dale, other big time orchestras will be booked at Olentangy's Cascada Gardens throughout the summer months.

FOOD DROPPED FROM PLANE FOR WORKMEN

Pickets Trap Rayon Plant Workers in Cleveland; Refuse to Leave.

CLEVELAND, May 21.—Marooned within a wall of strike pickets, an unknown number of non-union workers who were served their "dinner" last night from an airplane, remained prisoners in the labor embattled Industrial Rayon Corp., plant today.

The pickets marched firmly outside the plant, refusing entrance or exit to anyone.

Despite their watchfulness last night, however, the pickets found themselves outwitted when an airplane carrying two men flew low over the plant and dropped packages of food to the imprisoned non-union workers. Names of the flyers were not learned but it was disclosed at Municipal airport they had obtained special permission to fly low over the strike-torn plant.

The strike at the rayon plant, which has resulted in more violence than any recent labor dispute here, was called suddenly yesterday because the company refused to bargain with the union in its demand for a flat ten percent wage increase, time and one-half for overtime, seniority rights and a checkoff system.

Early this morning, an unidentified worker attempted to leave the picketed plant. He was soundly cuffed and ran back inside the plant with the loss of his coat.

Use of the airplane to drop food to the imprisoned workers angered the pickets last night. They retaliated by refusing entrance to the plant of a man wearing a detective's badge. The man, said to be a private detective, threw three tear gas bombs into the throng of 3000 strikers and fought his way inside.

Never was there a time when so many chances or service beckoned to a man to go out and do something for his fellow men.—Harry H. Woodring, assistant secretary of war.

JOIN THE C. OF C.

THE Circleville Chamber of Commerce will start its drive for new members this week, a campaign that should be given hearty co-operation and the careful consideration of every resident of the city. We should all bear in mind that the Chamber of Commerce is always on the job, working for the best interests of Circleville and Pickaway-co.

Every day there are problems which confront the commerce body, problems which must be solved, and questions answered, which go into the everyday experience of local business establishments and industrial plants. Without some sort of a commercial organization, such as the Chamber of Commerce, the city would lag behind in development and would lose out on many opportunities for progress.

The mistaken idea that the Chamber of Commerce must always be out on the firing line with a "ballyhoo" about some new industry too often motivates members to withdraw their support from the organization, and also often keeps many from joining it. This is wrong in principle and in spirit. It is true that the Chamber of Commerce is always on the look-out for new industries, but its principle function in these strenuous times is to aid in every way possible to keep the industries we now have operating satisfactorily, with a margin of profit to the owners and full-time employment for workers. And that means increased pay rolls and money circulating through all channels of local business. The Chamber of Commerce must be looked upon not only as the enthusiastic producer of new things, but as the guardian over those we already have.

An achievement of the local organization during the past week should meet with the approval of every resident of Pickaway-co. Members of this organization, through a delegated committee, succeeded in an effort to iron out the difficulties and breaking the deadlock between the state relief administration and county officials. The result of a series of conferences brought about a continuation of the relief work in the county and a better understanding of the problems involved to all parties concerned. It is probable that the results obtained are not satisfactory to all, but the fact remains that the give-and-take policy adopted and the business-like view of the entire situation resulted in the restoration to Pickaway-co the aid to which it is entitled under the federal relief set-up.

The activities of the Chamber of Commerce can not be understood or appreciated by an outsider. Every business and professional man of Circleville should be a member and take his part in the discussions and share in the accomplishments. Not only should he be a member, but he should be an active one, and up on his toes. A few men can not do everything, and in the final analysis any body of a public character, such as the Chamber of Commerce, brings to a community only what its own members put into it. If your individual attitude is "Let George do it," the city and the organization will soon lapse into inactivity and die of malnutrition.

The Circleville Chamber of Commerce should add at least a hundred names to its membership rolls, and every member should take an active part and do his bit for his home town. Join today!

DEFENDER OF THE RIGHT

WHAT with the prominence accorded the decisions of the supreme court of the United States, the considerable accomplishment of the high tribunal of the state of Kansas may have been overlooked.

We call attention to it, in phrases honeyed. That august body has arisen amid the wreckage of rights and privileges and saved to posterity the noble American game of stud poker. It is not a swindle, says the court. Whoever said stud poker was a swindle? Somebody down in Sedgwick county so said and backed his judgment with money and legal talent through the state's courts. He gambled and lost.

The court said no; it said what every oldtimer knows—that stud poker is a card game, a gambling game, a device for the exercise of judgment and considerable bluffing, and a means for furthering the rapid circulation of money. But a scheme to "cheat, swindle and defraud," as alleged by the plaintiff? No, never!

STORMY LOVE

A YOUNG NAVY MAN'S ROMANCE BELLE BURNS GROMER

READ THIS FIRST:

Caroline Lieutenant Valentine Preston, attached to a gunboat in China, is rushing to the harbor at Shanghai to bid goodby to her childhood sweetheart, Janice Edding, who is sailing with her family to the United States, is frustrated when an attractive girl takes the last sampan to the liner anchored in the bay. A friend and strange classic of Val's, Brad Norris, also going to the liner to say goodby to the Edding family, saves the situation by giving Val a lift in his boat. Val learns Janice's father, Captain Edding, has been ordered to Puget Sound Navy Yard. Reaching the liner, he runs into Janice's young sister, Mimi, who is very fond of him. Val finds Janice with Kent Toney, another naval lieutenant, whom he dislikes. Finally getting Jan alone, Val apologizes for breaking a date with her the previous evening. To his disgust Val learns that Toney is sailing with the Eddings. Val bids Jan goodby in a huff and starts for shore. Val learns from Brad's wife, Sue, that he has resigned from the navy to accept a lucrative offer with the Corday Aviation Co. Back in Shanghai he sees in a passing ricksha the girl who had taken the last sampan.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 7

AFTER the disposal of the coin the girl ignored Val and her complete indifference piqued his mild curiosity. As her ricksha moved forward, another discharged his fare, so that he was able to swing into it. Not, he assured himself that his interest in the charming stranger was causing him to go her way, but rather that his hotel lay in that direction and was the logical oasis to yield the liquid refreshment he craved.

His ricksha and the girl's at various times rolled along side by side. Once when she favored him with the vaguest smile of recognition he was interested to observe an appealing dimple at the corner of her red mouth. He had a weakness for dimples. Before they crossed the Soochow Creek bridge he was betting himself this young person also was bound for the Astor.

His hunch proved correct and as they drove up before the Occident he saw the portals of the most famous hotel in the East, he watched her descend before him. When she handed her boy his fare it became apparent that she was a newcomer to the Orient since she seemed not to understand that however generous the ricksha coolie's cumshu, he always hawks for more. The bewickered Sikh doorman in khaki and colored turban was busily engaged in assisting an Indian Rajah and his wife into a Rolls Royce. And so Val stepped good-naturedly down to the aid of the bewildered little figure assailed by blasts of pidgin English, and sent her boy about his business with a sharp word of command.

When he turned to enter the hotel the girl moved beside him. While he explained the idiosyncrasies of rickshamen in general, they paused with one accord in the lobby to survey the tea-hour activities. An orchestra played a seductive air and there were couples dancing in a mirrored room off the lounge. Then as Val caught sight of two of his ship-mates making their leisurely way toward the bar he started to bow and turn away to join them.

But even as he turned something in the girl's expression stopped him. The brown eyes watching the dancers were filled with a wistful longing that tugged mysteriously at his heart strings. She seemed so alone in the midst of a gaily indifferent gathering. A moment later he was amazed to hear himself offering her tea.

The dimple deepened gratefully up at him. After an instant's hesitation she said, "No tea. But I should adooah a cocktail."

"A lady after my own heart," he approved as they made their way to a corner of the lounge. There, a Chinese boy, at Val's bidding, brought Martinis and placed the glasses on a low table before them.

"I'm terribly afraid you were cross with me today when I stole your sampan," the girl smiled up at him. "But you, I wanted a little ride on the water and that was the only one left."

As he lighted her cigaret Val marveled at the length of her thick, straight lashes. "It didn't really matter," he answered, "since it would only have given a very charming friend a little more time to suggest I go jump into the river." He lighted his own cigaret, then inquired, "From one of the Southern States, aren't you?"

"From Charleston, South Carolina," she replied. She pronounced it "Charleston, South Carolina." "I thought as much, although your accent doesn't drip sunny South quite as much as some." She had taken off her gloves and he saw that her small, sun-tinted hands were guiltless of rings, wedding or otherwise.

"Do you expect me to talk like a small-town Georgian and say, 'Sugah, you-all suah 'nough ah sweet to treat me to tishere lov'ly likal'?" she drawled.

"So long as you call me Sugah, you have my permission to the rest in Polish if you like."

While her dark eyes approved him, the girl sipped her cocktail and permitted him to carry the conversation. But after a time he worried of this effort so that he resented having been enticed into bothering with her and felt his interest curdle into annoyance. She was, he decided, just another of those alluring little sirens who loll about inviting the homage of fatuous males. The veil said as much; so did the scarlet emameled nails and the gold cigarette case with a miniature of entwined lovers on its lid. To contradict these signs, however, she had blushed when he stared at her lashes, and she was thrilled as a child over a Chinese lady who drifted past like a slim willow wand on a stream, wrapped in the long satin robe, the modern Chinese woman of fashion had evolved from the old costume.

"Oh, do look," the girl breathed when the painted little Oriental lady sank into a nearby chair and lighted a cigaret in a delicate jade holder. "Isn't she too lovely?"

He smiled at her evident interest. "I can't share your enthusiasm over these flat-faced little China gals," he told her.

"But this one is so beautiful," she insisted. "She must be someone important, a great lady. Her hands are like creamy wax. Her eyes are simply glorious."

Val watched her amusedly. "It's a shame to disappoint you," he said, "but that happens to be a very notorious and rich young person of scandalous reputation and no family worth mentioning. Every time one of her lurid love affairs goes sour, she tries to kill herself—although so far, as you can see, with no success."

The girl was silenced only for a moment. "I don't care what anyone says about her—reputation. I think she is simply beautiful."

"Oh, but it isn't Chinese blood that makes her so good-looking," Val said

According to the traffic bureau of the state highway department, there is an automobile in Ohio for each four residents. There are 1,613,625 motor cars in the state, which has a population of 6,046,000.

If the same ratio applies here, we have approximately 6,500 motor vehicles in Pickaway-co. And it seems to me that there are occasions when all of them try to park in Main-st in Circleville at the same time, with a fair representation of somewhat overgrown vehicles of various designs from out of the county monopolizing the choice locations at the curb and in the middle of the street for an unreasonable length of time.

A traveling man said the other day that he'd rather drive two miles in the loop district of Chicago than to attempt to pilot his car through two blocks of traffic on Main-st in Circleville.

Henry Ford, collector of antiques, and sometimes referred to as an automobile manufacturer, has made inquiries concerning the old structure. The old bridge is to be replaced by a modern structure and Edison institute has asked for photographs and an estimate of what the county commissioners would want for the relic.

If all the T models that were crossed this old bridge were parked end to end, the line would reach around the world.

If you want to break a bull for useful labor on the farm, don't hitch it to a roller and then go away and leave it. A. H. Sells, a farmer near Dublin, tried that the other day and lost the bull. He wandered too near the bank of the Scioto river, and the 800-pound roller with the bull attached, dropped into the stream. Both the roller and the bull were pulled out of the water several hours later, but the bull went to the fertilizer works.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

"The Private Life of Don Juan," Douglas Fairbanks' first film in two years, comes to the Cliftona Theatre Wednesday.

Produced by Alexander Korda for London Films, the combination which gave us "The Private Life of Henry VIII" and "Catherine the Great," "The Private Life of Don Juan" tells in vivid and amusing fashion the story of how the incurable romanticist, deprived by a trick of fate of his name and reputation, wanders from one lovely creature to another, determined to prove to himself and the world that he's still the world's greatest lover.

The film offers Doug one of his typical swashbuckling, dardevil roles and is replete with vigorous swordplay and breath-taking stunts.

James Cagney, while on location at North Island, San Diego, Calif., where he made "Devil Dogs of the Air," the Cosmopolitan production which Warner Bros. presents at the Grand Theatre, was confined to his hotel room for several days under doctor's orders. During his illness Director Lloyd Bacon has had to shoot scenes in which the star does not appear.

Cagney's illness developed from seasickness. He took his 60-foot sailboat to San Diego for the purpose of living on it during production, but gave it up.

AT THE CIRCLE

"Rescue Squad," starring Ralph Forbes, with Verna Hillie in the feminine lead, and Leon Woyoff, Kata Pentzer, Sheila Terry and Frank Leigh in prominent roles, will open at the Circle Theatre on Tuesday for a two day run.

Announced as a high-tension romance-drama, with Forbes in the role of a collector of antiques who becomes entangled in a maze of mysterious and exciting events when he meets Norma Britt, heiress who is on the point of running away with a philanderer, "Rescue Squad" is said to be one of the most unique and entertaining vehicles in which Forbes has ever appeared.

WHAT IS A RESTAURANT?

(Columbus Dispatch)
The art of precise definition is not so easy as it may seem. To produce an acceptable definition of a dog calls for ability in the art of lucid and exact statement.

Someone defined a bachelor as a mean, tight-fisted old skin-flint who has cheated a charming, beautiful, clinging woman out of a divorce. This may be true, but is it a fair definition?

The small boy defined a lie as an abomination unto the Lord but a very present help in time of trouble. Even George Washington might bear witness to the general acceptability of this statement.

Sometimes definitions go even further astray, as for instance that humorous description of President Taft as "a large body of good nature surrounded by friends who knew exactly what they wanted."

How Certain Persons Carry Disease Germs on Bodies

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WE MENTIONED yesterday the increased protection that has been given the public through the covering and wrapping of food in stores, pasteurization of milk, and so on. This involves the elimination of infected food handlers in places where food is manufactured.

There is, however, another source of infection from food handlers which occurs after the manufacture and purchase, and that is infection by cooks and food handlers in the kitchen. No more complete proof of the hazard which these people constitute could be offered than to recall the outbreak of amebic dysentery in Chicago during 1928, most of the cases of which were traced to certain hotels.

In hotels of Chicago, generally, it was found at that time that 3.9 per cent of the employees in hotels and restaurants carried the cause of amebic dysentery on their persons and usually on their hands, and in one hotel it was found that, on the average, about 7 per cent of the employees were carriers.

It is very difficult, as I said yesterday, for boards of health to enforce regulations concerning food handlers of this type. They move around from place to place, and it is difficult to make employers inform the board of health of changes, and a great harder order to fill would be: What is a drug store? To say it is a place where commerce in drugs is carried on is as far afield as to say restaurants are places where people can rest their aunts.

Well, the Ohio State Restaurant association has tackled the job. It has drafted a definition and will ask the Ohio legislature to give them the sanction of their approval when they say that a restaurant is a place of business where 50 per cent or more of the gross sales accrue from the sale of food-stuffs consumed on the premises. This will exclude beer and liquor places from the enjoyment of classification as restaurants.

deal of sentimental instruction is given to the effect that the board of health to eliminate the infected carriers. But the possibility of widespread epidemics of disease from this source are so common and so horrible, that the public should demand the enforcement of the regulations to the limit.

History of Carrier Cited

Recently in a popular magazine there was printed the history of the famous Typhoid Mary, who was almost the first person to be proved to be a carrier of typhoid fever. She worked as a cook in many households, and everywhere that she went typhoid fever was sure to follow. She objected strenuously at first, according to the account, to being prevented from engaging in her ordinary occupation, but finally became reconciled to it and led a happy existence as a laboratory assistant. She is, I believe, still alive, although not engaged in any occupation.

She is the most famous, but by no means the only typhoid carrier known. In fact, about one out of every ten persons who ever had typhoid is a carrier (many, as in the case of Typhoid Mary, cannot remember ever to have had typhoid fever, however).

And, according to officials in the U. S. public health service, typhoid epidemics, now that the water supply is so generally under control, are more likely to come from carriers (food handlers) than any other source. An epidemic in Washington a few years ago occurred among the guests at a church supper: the potatoes were "diced" by two women, both of whom carried typhoid germs under their fingernails.

The only sure protection is to be vaccinated against typhoid.

HOWARD WHITE CARRIES HOPE OF WESLEYAN

Must Come Through in Hurdles to Provide Chance For Team in BAA.

By GILSON WRIGHT.

A three-way fight among Miami, 1934 champions, Ohio and Ohio Wesleyan, with Cincinnati as an outside possibility, sums up the tenth annual Buckeye conference track and field meet to be held Friday and Saturday at Ohio university, Athens. Marshall, the fifth member, will not compete this spring.

Miami, Ohio and Cincinnati are strong in the field events and the middle and long distance runs, but each is weak in the sprints and hurdles. Ohio Wesleyan, weak in the weights and middle distance runs, is exceptionally strong in the sprints, hurdles, broad and high jumps.

Bishops Have Chance

While Ohio Wesleyan has been beaten decisively by both Ohio and Miami in dual meets, the Bishops may nose out their stronger opponents who will be engaging in cut-throat competition with each other in their strongest events.

Howard White, Ohio Wesleyan's ace hurdler and broad jumper, who scored 15 points in last year's meet as well as 18 two years ago, is the backbone of the Bishop team. Other Methodist stars are Gardner Allen, sprinter; Bob Ulrich, hurdler, and Bob Recker, high jumper.

Cincinnati, while not a likely team winner, will present a potent weight man in London Gant, Negro football star, who may win enough points to hurt Ohio and Miami in the weights and Ohio Wesleyan in the javelin.

Miami is given an edge as the

JONES SPECIALS LOSE FAST GAME

The Jones Specials, hard ball team, was defeated Sunday by the Red and White grocers on the Williamsport field. The score was 1 to 3.

Don Johnson pitched splendid ball giving only three hits. The teams have been re-matched to play here June 2.

The Chillicothe Advocates, fast colored team, will come here next Sunday to play at 2:30.

Other games booked for the Specials are: June 9 at Washington, C. H.; June 16 at Chillicothe; June 23 Washington, C. H. here.

Players being used by Manager Alfred Jones are Jay Henry, Jr., c; D. Johnson, p; H. Grant, 1b; W. Jones, 2b; Jay Henry, Sr., ss; A. Jones, 3b; Coleman, lf; Harrison, cf; L. Hill, rf; M. Johnson, Lewis, John Jackson and C. Hill, utility.

likely winner of the meet even without Amsden Oliver, Negro hurdle star, whose pulled tendon will keep him out of competition. The Redskins, though, may also lose Jim Cole, sprinter and broad jumper, through a leg injury, but it is believed he will be in condition for the meet. If Cole is out, Miami's chances will be lessened.

Ohio will bank on Jim Gilmore, miler and half-miler; Elder Armstrong, hurdler, sprinter and pole vaulter, and Paul Halleck, weight star.

The records may fall in this week's meet. Recker already has broken the high jump mark of 6 feet, 1 1/2 inches, made by Hammond of Wesleyan in 1933, but he must repeat in the conference meet in order to put his performance in the record books. The other possible record-breaking feat may be done by Halleck of Ohio, Thompson of Miami or Gant of Cincinnati in the discus. The three have approached or bettered 130 feet this season. The record is 135 feet, 9 1/2 inches, made by Cheadle of Miami in 1932.

High Students Compete At Ohio State This Week

COLUMBUS, May 21.—Preparations were being made today by Ohio State university athletic officials to receive nearly 100 high school baseball, track, tennis and golf teams who are to participate in the annual state finals here Friday and Saturday.

More than 50 schools are expected to enter the track meet which will start Friday morning with elimination heats in the dashes and field events being held.

The field events will be completed Saturday morning while the finals in the running events will be held Saturday afternoon.

Toledo Scott is defending Class A champion in track, while Delta captured the Class B honors last year.

Elimination rounds in the "A" and "B" baseball tournament are to be held Friday and Saturday morning with the finals in each class scheduled for Saturday afternoon. Cincinnati Withrow captured the Class A diamond honors in 1934 while Mayfield Heights is the defending B champ.

Toledo Scott, Sandusky and Dayton Roosevelt will probably class as favorites to annex the Class A track crown while Tiltonville, Warren, Wooster and Pomeroy have played a classy brand of ball in winning their respective district titles and are favored to fight it out for the state "A" laurels.

STATES SWAP FISH

CHEYENNE, Wyo.—Wyming recently swapped 50,000 rainbow trout eggs for 50,000 golden trout eggs from California. The state game commissions of the two states arranged the trade. The California trout eggs will be planted in lakes in the Big Horn and Saw Tooth mountains.

HASSETT HITS TO WIN GAME FOR 'BIRDIES'

First Sacker Unloads Homer In Ninth Inning; Joe Sims May Hurl Today.

COLUMBUS, May 21.—Their losing streak snapped, the Columbus Red Birds were expected to send Joe Sims, one of the Flock's moundsmen to the box today in an effort to continue their winning ways.

A "Dick Merriwell" play featured yesterday's game which the Birds won 2 to 1. John "Bud" Hassett, Bird first baseman, clouted for the circuit in the last half of the ninth with one man out to give the locals the decision.

The game was a battle of south-paws with Jim Mooney, late of the Cardinals and Giants halting the Millers while Bill Perrin, property of Cleveland, was almost as tough.

Manager Ray Blades was not certain of his mound choice although he said he might take a chance on Sims who has been doing mostly relief work. Tinning or Copeland, recent additions, are also possibilities.

The Minneapolis choice is uncertain.

BOSTON, May 21.—One and one-half games out of first place, the touring Cleveland Indians went after their third straight victory here today after rouncing the Boston Red Sox, 4 to 1, in the series opener yesterday afternoon.

Oral Hildebrand limited the Sox to one hit an inning, which sadly included a home run in the sixth by Rick Ferrell, while the Tribe was able to garner but seven safe bingles from Lefty Grove and Rube Walberg. The victory was the second the Indians have scored over Grove and the second Hildebrand has turned in this season.

Grove reserved to be left in the game, but was replaced by a pinch hitter in the eighth inning. While he was on the mound, the Indians made only four hits. The Tribe scored a run in the second on some Boston errors and a single, and another in the fourth on a double, sacrifice and single.

Willis Hudlin, the Indians' leading pitcher, faced the Sox today, and Fritz Ostermueller, young southpaw who handed the Tribe a 2 to 1 facing at Cleveland two weeks ago, was to hurl for Boston.

CHOWS IN SPLIT

The Ralston-Purina ball team split a double bill at Lancaster Sunday losing their first effort to the Hocking Glasses 6 to 7 but winning the final by a 7 to 0 count.

Pitchers for the Purina outfit were Raymond Smith and Pug Fowler.

NEW SPORT

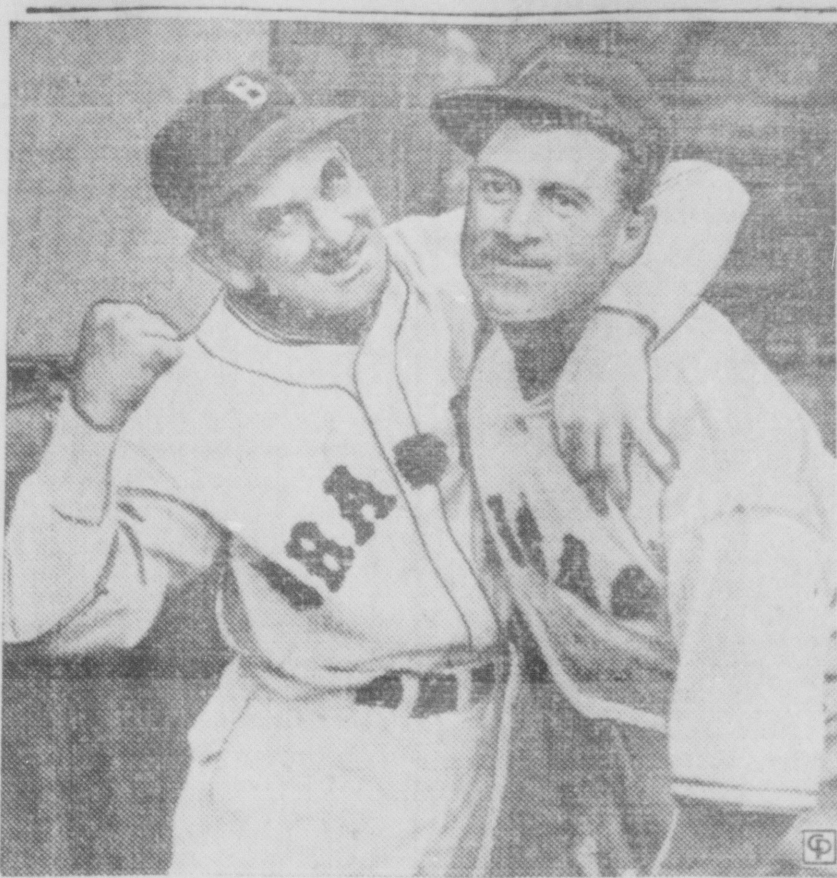

CODY, Wyo.—Members of the Cody Rod and Gun Club of "Buffalo Bills" home town, had pre-hunting season practice on magpies and alley cats. The two species were listed as public enemies Nos. 1 and 2, and the campaign of eradication begun.

GOLF FACTS

ALEX MORRISON says: A child is unafraid of many things until he is taught to fear them. Usually a person taking up golf is not afraid of such errors as slicing and topping. These mistakes are committed many times before they prompt fear. In time the player's fear of doing something wrong becomes an obsession. He doesn't strive to do the correct thing half as hard as he does to minimize his errors. Fear rules every move he makes. Such is the mental attitude of many experienced golfers. The few who have attained consistent success are those with the means of overcoming their fears. In fact, their success is really a conquest of fear. It isn't wise to say that you aren't afraid when results prove otherwise. First of all, admit your fears. Then go to work on them one by one. It will do much to lower your scores.

WHAT A GRIMM STRUGGLE!

Rabbit Maranville

Charlie Grimm

Reports of that free-for-all battle between the Cubs and Pirates at Chicago recently drifted to Boston, and Rabbit Maranville, irrepressible veteran of the Braves, decided to see just how tough Manager Charlie Grimm of the Cubs really was. Here the Rabbit is pictured, left, pulling the hard-boiled Chicago pilot down to his size. They're former teammates on the Cubs.

Landman Does Well

Big Everett Landman, New Holland's one man track and basketball team, did mighty well himself in the class B division of the central district track and field meet last Saturday at Delaware. He scored a first place in the broad jump traveling 19 feet 8 1/2 inches; he was second in the high jump the event being won by Black of University school at 5 feet 10 1/2 inches, and he took fourth place in the 220-yard dash.

Others Score, Too

Herb Dennis, of New Holland, won third in the broad jump and the New Holland team was second in the half mile relay. The Washington-twp relay team knocked off third in the mile relay with Leist of Washington finishing fourth in the quarter-mile.

Golfers Tangling

An interesting golf meet was being staged on the Pickaway Country club course today with the Tigers meeting the other Central Buckeye league schools. The Red and Black quartet was expected to be John and Joe Jenkins, Chuck Styers and Harry Richey. Coach Pete Herberholz is in charge of the meet.

Plan "Rec" Meeting

With the water now all off the S. O. Electric Co. field and only mud to be cleared up, it is expected a meeting of recreation ball team managers will be called sometime the latter part of this week in preparation for opening of the league next Monday. Squirrel Jones' hard ball club is playing on the field Sunday. A new fence has been built and all concerned but old Jupe Pluvius seem ready to go.

HELFRICH'S WIN

New Holland's Helfrich ball club won a 6-5 thriller from the Craven Drugs, Columbus, Sunday by scoring four runs in the eighth inning. Hicks and Saunders twirled for the winners.

Nick is a wire-haired terrier. He belongs to George William Groom of W. Mound St. One day last week the call of Spring got into Nick's feet and he decided to do a little exploring. We assume, although he hasn't verified it, that he wandered too far from his familiar stoop and just couldn't find his way back.

But his owner knew what to do. He inserted a lost ad for Nick and here is what happened. "I lost my dog on Monday. Thursday I ran an ad in The Herald and my dog's whereabouts were immediately made known to me," said Mr. Groom last Friday morning. So Nick is back, and these columns have proved their value again.

SENATE, HOUSE TO INCREASE IN SIZE IN 1936

Four New Senators, Three New Representatives To Be Named At Polls.

COLUMBUS, May 21—Ohio's 92nd General Assembly, to be elected next year, will consist of four more senators and three more lower house members than were elected to the present legislature. In the next Senate there will be 36 members, in the next House 138 members.

Attention was directed today to the impending membership increase by George Neffner, statistician in the office of Secretary of State George S. Myers, Ohio's chief election official.

Belmont, Mahoning and Franklin are the counties that will get one more lower house member than they have now. Belmont will elect two, Mahoning four, Franklin six.

Elect Two Senators
Four state senatorial districts, each now represented by a single senator, will elect two to the 2nd General Assembly. They are:

Third district—comprising Montgomery and Preble counties.

17th-18th-19th-28th district—comprising Knox, Morrow, Holmes, Wayne, Coshocton, Tuscarawas, Guernsey, Monroe and part of Noble counties.

20th-22nd district—comprising Belmont, Harrison, Jefferson and Columbiana counties.

30th-33rd district—comprising Wood, Putnam, Henry, Hancock, Fulton, Sandusky, Ottawa, Huron and Erie counties.

On the basis of the current legislative salary schedule the seven new senators and representatives will cost the taxpayers an additional $14,000, plus mileage and other expenses, during the 92nd General Assembly.

But if Gov. Martin L. Davey permits the Ogrin bill, passed last week, to become a law the cost of the new lawmakers' salaries alone will be $28,000. The Ogrin bill boosts members' salaries from $1,000 to $2,000 a year, and that of the lieutenant governor from $2,000 to $3,000 a year.

As explained by Statistician Neffner, the membership increases are due to population fractions the affected counties have in excess of the legislative apportionment.

The apportionment ratio for the house of representatives is 66,466 persons, for the state senate 189,905, on the basis of a total Ohio population of 6,646,697 as shown in the 1930 census.

Every county, regardless of population, is entitled to one House member, but when any county has a fraction above the ratio for representative (66,466) so large that, being multiplied by five, the result is equal to one or more ratios, additional members are apportioned for such ratios among the five general assemblies of the decennial period between federal censuses.

RELIEF WAGE SCALE IS HIT

Ohio Labor Leaders Condemn Schedule Set Up Under Works Program.

COLUMBUS, May 21—Ohio labor leaders rose up en masse today to condemn the new wage rate schedules established for this state under the federal $4,880,000,000 work relief program.

Branding the new schedules, created by President Roosevelt, unfair to labor, although Ohio is included in the area allocated the highest schedules of rates, officials of labor federations warned that the new rates may result in a general breakdown of higher wage schedules in private industry.

Ohio workers under the new federal program will receive the following rates of pay, based on the size of communities in which they work:

Only Civilian Conservation Corps members, employees of the state highway department working on projects under the federal program, present employees on work relief and PWA projects and supervisory employees are exempt from the federal wage schedules.

CCC workers will receive an average of $25 a month. State highway employees' wage rates will be fixed by the highway department, subject to approval of the federal bureau of roads, and workers on projects already under way under the work relief and PWA programs will receive the same schedules of wages they have been getting.

ANGRY ELEPHANT KILLS TRAINER

HOLLYWOOD, May 21—Gored by the tusks and trampled by the feet of a giant bull elephant, "Prince," Joe Reed, 40, veteran animal trainer, died in a hospital today.

Reed's injuries were sustained as he attempted to put the huge beast and seven companions through their paces, at the winter quarters of the Al G. Barnes circus at Baldwin park, in preparation for a jungle motion picture.

It was said that "Prince," the largest of the herd, always was regarded as a "rogue" and that Reed realized he was courting death when he worked with the beast.

Suddenly, witnesses said, the elephants stampeded. Five headed for their barn, two females broke into the open. Reed attempted to quiet "Prince," and suddenly the beast turned on its trainer.

So-Called Honeymoon of Press and President Long Since Ended

WASHINGTON — Recent deluges of printer's ink over the supposed satanic success of the Roosevelt Administration in swaying the press, a largely a tempest in a teapot.

Press relations under the New Deal have been about the same as those under any other recent administration, with two exceptions:

1. Roosevelt has been a little more skillful in doing what every other president has striven to do—win the favor of the White House correspondents.
2. The New Deal has hired an unusual number of newspapermen, but for the most part, they have been efficient, faithful government servants, serving as fact-finders rather than propagandists—distributors.

Unquestionably the early days of the New Deal were marked by a honeymoon between press and President. To a certain extent this is true of every new administration. It was particularly true of Roosevelt because news was breaking faster than at any other time since the World War.

A deluge of news is the best way to keep the press happy. It is also the best way to prevent scandals from being unearthed. When reporters are rushed to death with such momentous events as the United States going off the gold standard, they do not have time to ferret out anything else. And their managing editors would not have the space to use it even if they did.

That was why the CCC kit-bag story slipped by with very meagre repercussions. Too much else was happening in the Spring of 1933. However, those honeymoon days are now over.

Between Roosevelt and the press as a whole there is a new atmosphere. Press conferences are no longer the love-feasts they once were. Barbed questions are shot at the President—usually skillfully parried. Background information no longer is given so freely. Some reporters, tired of the good-natured persiflage which is the chief material exuded from the conferences, no longer attend. There was a time when they could not afford to be absent.

This attitude, it should be emphasized, is that of the press as a whole. It is not true of the little group of reporters closest to the White House.

Happy Family

This group has become almost a part of the President's entourage. Its motto is "The President Can Do No Wrong."

Naturally this is a great boon to any President. The reporters who cover the White House write for several million people whereas the average newspaperman writes for thousands. They are the machine gunners of journalism—and Roosevelt knows this.

He also knows their first names, invites them to dinner frequently, gives them entrance to the White House at any and all times. Mrs. Roosevelt visits them when they are sick. Sometimes she drops in casually to see their children. They are a part of the official family.

As a result, they worship the Roosevelt family with a ferocity that is understandable but that cannot help but influence their work.

This is a relationship to which every President aspires. Calvin Coolidge got it to a considerable extent. So did Warren Harding. Hoover did not. Roosevelt has achieved it more successfully than any of these—but only with the small group which covers the White House.

With the press in general he has not.

The army of newspapermen

BUTLER HEADS NEW CAMPAIGN TO PAY BONUS

Support of All Who Carried Guns Urged By Advocates

"STUNG ENOUGH"

Fear Patman Bill Veto to Win Support

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Bonuses, fearful of defeat on the Patman bill, today mapped a new campaign for cashing the bonus and called defiantly for the support of every man who ever carried a gun for his government.

Major General Smedley D. Butler, ex-marine stormy petrel, was called in and volunteered his services in the formation of a new veterans organization to push the issue.

New National Unit

Sitting in the office of the senate bonus leader, Senator Thomas (D) Oklahoma, Butler outlined plans for a national unit dedicated to the sole object of securing payment of the soldiers' adjusted compensation certificates.

"The soldiers have been stung enough, and I think they're ready to organize and fight for their rights, politically and every other way," said Butler.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Fighting a desperate battle to save the NRA, the administration today was ready to abandon codes for local business employing a total of from 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 workers.

The house ways and means committee, which is considering the senate NRA extension resolution, also considered other elaborate reform plans outlined by Donald R. Richberg, NRA head.

Despite these concessions, Richberg demanded an NRA extension bill which would preserve most of the present powers of NRA over businesses said to affect interstate commerce.

The conflict developing between senate and house over NRA was emphasized after Senators Nye and McNamara.

ALL SCHOOL MEN OFFERED POSTS

Every school superintendent in Pickaway-co had been re-elected today with announcement that Brice Connell, of Darby-twp, has been hired for another year at an increase in salary.

The corps of superintendent in the county for the next school year will be the same as for the past year unless some unexpected change is made. All incumbents have been offered contracts.

DENNISES IN WRECK

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Dennis, 121 W. Ohio-st. and Miss Myrtle Root, Miami, Fla., escaped serious injury Monday afternoon when Mrs. Dennis' Chevrolet car driven by her husband overturned on the Columbus-pk.

The Dennises and Miss Root were traveling south when Mr. Dennis lost control of the machine.

It struck a fence post. Deputy Bob Armstrong investigated the accident.

Another Half Inch of Rain Recorded

Just when everyone thought the county had received its quota of rain for May and that farmers were going to get a chance to finish their planting, another half inch of rain was sprinkled on the countryside Monday afternoon and evening.

The exact rainfall was .56 of an inch according to Dr. H. R. Clarke's measurements.

THIRD BALLOT ON PAROCHIAL BILL IS SEEN

PRESSURE IS USED

Davey Forces Seeking Approval of Issue

Members of the House finance committee were unexpectedly ordered back to the capital Tuesday afternoon presumably to reconsider the Davey Senate bill appropriating $3,000,000 from the state treasury for the aid of the parochial schools.

Clark K. Hunsicker, Pickaway-co representative in the assembly, was notified by telegram Tuesday morning to report for the meeting and that "no excuses for not attending will be accepted."

Julian Schweller, Fort Jennings Democrat, is chairman of the finance committee.

Failed by One Vote

Twice the same committee has refused to report the bill out and recommend its passage by the lower house, the senate having already approved it. On the last roll call the measure came within one vote of receiving enough support to be reported out.

As one of the bills on the Davey legislative program, passage of the parochial school bill has been the object of a concerted drive by administration House leaders.

It is believed failure to put the parochial bill to a test on the floor of the House has held up calling the Traxler-Kiefer bill establishing a foundation program for public schools for another vote.

ler foreman; Pickaway-twp road, Sam McKenzie foreman; Perry-twp road, W. E. Porter foreman, and Circleville-twp road, John Greeno foreman.

Notified to Report

All relief workers have been notified by their foreman when they are to report for work.

In the meantime, Mr. Coffey and his office aides have been working diligently trying to "clear the decks" for actual relief work. About 250 orders for food stamps, amounting to $2 each were dispensed as emergency orders Monday afternoon by the director, and his aides. More were being dispensed today in an effort to provide all relief families the necessities of life.

"The food orders we are giving now," Mr. Coffey said, "will tide the families over until our system is installed and their checks for works relief are available."

As soon as the office work lets up a little Mr. Coffey plans to visit each project with Harry Griner, FERA engineer, to learn just what is being done in the way of works relief.

He urged that city, county and township develop worthy projects so men heading relief families can continue to earn a living for their families through works projects. It is necessary that sponsors of projects provide money for materials while the FERA furnishes the labor.

For Works Projects

The commissioners have urged that as much of the money as possible allotted to the county be spent in works relief instead of direct relief.

Mr. Coffey and the commissioners met for a short time Monday afternoon and briefly discussed the relief question with both pledging co-operation.

COLUMBUS, May 21.—About 341,000 of the approximately 1,120,000 persons on relief in Ohio are employable, Charles C. Stillman, federal relief administrator for Ohio, estimated here today.

The estimate is based upon data that is being compiled at state relief headquarters in connection with the state-wide occupational classification survey now being conducted by relief authorities.

Of the 341,000 employables, Stillman said, about 50,000 are working on the 2,328 FERA work projects now in operation throughout the state.

250,000 To Work

"The Ohio relief administration is prepared to put about 250,000 employables" to work when further details of the enlarged work relief program are completed at Washington and additional work projects in the state are approved," Stillman said.

"We have ready for approval about 3,225 new work projects which, if authorized, would involve the expenditure of approximately $80,000,000 of relief funds in Ohio."

Miss Sally Simpson,

U. S. A., MAin 1935

The modern American girl—of course she will live longer than a woman of any former generation, according to dull statistics. But there is something even more important to her than statistics. That is her chance of enjoying a life free from drudgery!

Over our entire land one out of two girls of high school age attend school. While in Europe, only one out of ten have that privilege. Compared to her foreign cousin, Miss Sally Simpson, U. S. A., has great fortune as her birthright.

For example, Miss Sally Simpson, U. S. A., has a far greater chance of living in a home with running water. After a busy day of play or work she may seek relaxation in the bathtub, known the world over as the American luxury. And when the Boy Friend wants a date he has almost one in two chances of reaching her by telephone. For Miss Sally Simpson, in any other country, the convenience of a home telephone is limited to one in eight.

In America this young lady has one in one-and-a-half chances of enjoying the use of an automobile. But her most fortunate foreign cousin has to be content with less than one automobile to every six families.

Miss Sally Simpson, U. S. A., may find two thirds of the homes provided with electric devices. Her foreign cousin can have only one such opportunity in five. If her party dress needs a hasty pressing, 97 per cent of American wired homes possess electric irons. Of the wired homes in the next nearest foreign country only 41 per cent have electric irons.

Merchants and manufacturers are all suitors of Miss Sally Simpson, U. S. A. Her modern and sensible tastes alter styles and bring innovations more certainly than the whims of royal princesses in days gone-by. Then, only girls born to the purple had even one-tenth the luxuries which Miss Sally Simpson, U. S. A., can count part of her everyday life.

She has her favorite lipsticks and powders, her favorite silk stockings and attractive clothes, her favorite shopping places. Her word bears weight in family decisions on purchases of household conveniences, automobiles or vacation trips. She has a decided liking for newspaper advertising as a reliable source of what and where to buy.

In a land where freedom of choice gives such unusual opportunities to Miss Sally Simpson, it is not surprising that she is held in more esteem than elsewhere. She may not be born to the purple in the old-time sense. Even so, bath tubs and bath soap, smart clothes and countless sundry commodities are the American equivalent to purple robes.

Yet, without the popular demand created by advertising, all these things would be as unheard of here as they are to so many of her foreign cousins. Miss Sally Simpson's reliance on American advertising, more than any other force, has given her all the things which make life so full and so pleasant.

MORE DEATHS ARE ADDED TO SOUTH'S TOLL

Hundreds of Families Homeless With Rivers Running Rampant After Storm.

NEW ORLEANS, La., May 21.—With three more deaths added to the list of flood and windstorm fatalities in the southland, rampaging rivers in Louisiana and Oklahoma today inflicted heavy property damage and suffering to hundreds of homeless families.

Deluges of rain swelled the Red river to flood stage in Louisiana, driving hundreds of farm families to higher ground in the Shreveport farm area. An inspection of the flood area was directed by Gov. O. K. Allen. The Arkansas river threatened to flood a wide area near Lavaca, Ark.

Three persons perished as tornado winds swung across three states. Two were killed near Midland City, Ala., while a third died in Mississippi of storm injuries. Eighteen others were dead in the storm area of Texas and lower Oklahoma.

Nearly 600 refugees crowded a tent colony just above the Oklahoma City lowlands where they sought shelter to escape the rampaging North Canadian river.

Property damage in the southwest storm area was estimated at nearly $3,000,000. Floods had washed out bridges, damaged highways and railroad rights of way and covered thousands of acres of rich farm land.

Girl Scout News

Circleville Girl Scout troop No. 4 held its regular meeting Friday, May 17, in the basement of the Presbyterian church. Miss Bertha Valentine had charge of the meeting as Mrs. Robinson was unable to be present for most of the meeting. After the business session, the park campaign was discussed and the enthusiasm was surely there. We played several games and it was announced that all the troops would get together for a Scout Sing on Monday after school. After short patrol corners, we closed with taps.

Scribe, Ruth Robinson

"It's a fine thing to sing" was the keynote of the Girl Scout Sing held in the basement of the Presbyterian church on Monday afternoon. Mrs. Karl Hermann had charge of the meeting. The hour passed quickly in the singing of old and new songs, discussion of the prospective city park, and an interesting nature talk on the subject of "Bees," by William Reid. The scouts closed their meeting with the singing of "The Star-Spangled Banner" and taps.

Girl Scout Troop Number 5 met in the yard at the High School Building Saturday afternoon. After holding a brief business session, we spent the rest of the time practicing for our investiture ceremony. A representative of a candy company presented us all with samples of suckers.

FOOD DROPPED FROM PLANE FOR WORKMEN

Pickets Trap Rayon Plant Workers in Cleveland; Refuse to Leave.

CLEVELAND, May 21.—Marooned within a wall of strike pickets, an unknown number of non-union workers who were served their "dinner" last night from an airplane, remained prisoners in the labor embattled Industrial Rayon Corp., plant today.

The pickets marched firmly outside the plant, refusing entrance or exit to anyone.

Despite their watchfulness last night, however, the pickets found themselves outwitted when an airplane carrying two men flew low over the plant and dropped packages of food to the imprisoned non-union workers. Names of the flyers were not learned but it was disclosed at Municipal airport they had obtained special permission to fly low over the strike-torn plant.

The strike at the rayon plant, which has resulted in more violence than any recent labor dispute here, was called suddenly yesterday because the company refused to bargain with the union in its demand for a flat ten percent wage increase, time and one-half for overtime, seniority rights and a checkoff system.

Early this morning, an unidentified worker attempted to leave the picketed plant. He was soundly cuffed and ran back inside the plant with the loss of his coat.

Use of the airplane to drop food to the imprisoned workers angered the pickets last night. They retaliated by refusing entrance to the plant of a man wearing a detective's badge. The man, said to be a private detective, threw three tear gas bombs into the throng of 3000 strikers and fought his way inside.

Never was there a time when so many chances or service beckoned to a man to go out and do something for his fellow men.—Harry H. Woodring, assistant secretary of war.

JOIN THE C. OF C.
The Circleville Chamber of Commerce will start its drive for new members this week, a campaign that should be given hearty cooperation and the careful consideration of every resident of the city. We should all bear in mind that the Chamber of Commerce is always on the job, working for the best interests of Circleville and Pickaway-co.

Every day there are problems which confront the commerce body, problems which must be solved, and questions answered, which go into the everyday experience of local business establishments and industrial plants. Without some sort of a commercial organization, such as the Chamber of Commerce, the city would lag behind in development and would lose out on many opportunities for progress. The mistaken idea that the Chamber of Commerce must always be out on the firing line with a "ballyhoo" about some new industry too often motivates members to withdraw their support from the organization, and also often keeps many from joining it. This is wrong in principle and in spirit. It is true that the Chamber of Commerce is always on the look-out for new industries, but its principle function in these strenuous times is to aid in every way possible to keep the industries we now have operating satisfactorily, with a margin of profit to the owners and full-time employment for workers. And that means increased pay rolls and money circulating through all channels of local business. The Chamber of Commerce must be looked upon not only as the enthusiastic producer of new things, but as the guardian over those we already have.

An achievement of the local organization during the past week should meet with the approval of every resident of Pickaway-co. Members of this organization, through a delegated committee, succeeded in an effort to iron out the difficulties and breaking the deadlock between the state relief administration and county officials. The result of a series of conferences brought about a continuation of the relief work in the county and a better understanding of the problems involved to all parties concerned. It is probable that the results obtained are not satisfactory to all, but the fact remains that the give-and-take policy adopted and the business-like view of the entire situation resulted in the restoration to Pickaway-co the aid to which it is entitled under the federal relief set-up.

The activities of the Chamber of Commerce can not be understood or appreciated by an outsider. Every business and professional man of Circleville should be a member and take his part in the discussions and share in the accomplishments. Not only should he be a member, but he should be an active one, and up on his toes. A few men can not do everything, and in the final analysis any body of a public character, such as the Chamber of Commerce, brings to a community only what its own members put into it. If your individual attitude is "Let George do it," the city and the organization will soon lapse into inactivity and die of malnutrition.

The Circleville Chamber of Commerce should add at least a hundred names to its membership rolls, and every member should take an active part and do his bit for his home town. Join today!

DEFENDER OF THE RIGHT
WHAT with the prominence accorded the decisions of the supreme court of the United States, the considerable accomplishment of the high tribunal of the state of Kansas may have been overlooked. We call attention to it in phrases honeyed. That august body has arisen amid the wreckage of rights and privileges and saved to posterity the noble American game of stud poker. It is not a swindle, says the court. Whoever said stud poker was a swindle? Somebody down in Sedgewick county so said and backed his judgment with money and legal talent through the state's courts. He gambled and lost.

The court said no; it said what every optimizer knows—that stud poker is a card game, a gambling game, a device for the exercise of judgment and considerable bluffing, and a means for furthering the rapid circulation of money. But a scheme to "cheat, swindle and defraud," as alleged by the plaintiff? No, never!

An heiress to millions complains that she cannot exist on $5,000 a month. Unfortunately, we are able to suggest nothing but the unpleasant alternative.

A gentleman says art authority on gentlemanly behavior, is one who dies without having revealed his dislikes. But, on the other hand, there's not much satisfaction in having dislikes if we can't reveal them.

Enforcement of traffic regulations, particularly double parking, was discussed by the city council and necessary ordinances passed. It was suggested that city residents discontinue the practice of parking their cars in the business sections on Saturdays.

A large barn on the farm of Isaac Williams, in Harrison-twp., was destroyed by fire. The origin of the blaze was not determined.

Lewis Hyman, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hyman, was run down and fatally injured by an automobile driven by J. M. Borner, one mile north of Ashville. The child ran across the road directly in the path of the approaching car. Witnesses exonerated the driver from all blame.

STORMY LOVE
A YOUNG NAVY MAN'S ROMANCE
BELLE BURNS GROMER
READ THIS FIRST:
Carefree Lieutenant Valentine Preston, attached to a garrison in China, in rushing to the harbor at Shanghai to bid good-bye to his childhood sweetheart, Janice Edding, who is sailing with her family to the United States, is frustrated when an attractive girl takes the last sampan to the liner anchored in the bay. A friend and Annabelle's classmate of Val's, Brad Norris, also going to the River to say good-bye to the Edding family, saves the situation by giving Val a lift in his boat. Val learns Janice's father, Captain Edding, has been ordered to the Pacific Sound Navy Yard. To escape the loss, he runs into Jan's young sister, Nina, who is every fond of him. Val finds Jan's old friend, another naval lieutenant, whom he dislikes. Finally getting Jan alone, Val apologizes for breaking a date with her the previous evening. To his disgust Val learns that Brad's sister is going to the U.S. and starts for shore. Val learns from Brad's wife, Sue, that he has resigned from the navy to accept a lucrative offer with the Cordray Aviation Co. Back in Shanghai he sees in a passion the girl who had taken the last sampan.
(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)
CHAPTER 7
AFTER the disposal of the coin the girl ignored Val and her complete indifference pained his mild curiosity. As her ricksha moved forward, another discharged its fare, so that he was able to swing into it. Not, he assured himself that his interest in the charming stranger was causing him to go her way, but rather that his hotel lay in that direction and the liquid refreshment he craved. His ricksha and the girl's at various times rolled along side by side. Once when she favored him with the vaguest smile of recognition he was interested to observe an appealing dimple at the corner of her red mouth. He had a weakness for dimples. Before they crossed the Szechow Creek bridge he was betting himself this young person also was bound for the Astor.

His hunch proved correct and as they drove up before the Occidental portals of the most famous hotel in the East, he watched her descend before him. When she handed her boy his fare it became apparent that she was a newcomer to the Orient since she seemed not to understand that however generous the ricksha coolies' empha, he always howls for more. The bewildered Sikh doorman in khaki and peaked tunic was busily engaged in assisting an Indian Rajah and his wife into a Rolls Royce. And so Val stepped good-naturedly down to the aid of the bewildered little figure assailed by blasts of pinyin English, and sent her boy about his business with a sharp word of command.

When he turned to enter the hotel the girl moved beside him. While he explained the idiosyncrasies of rickshamen in general, they paused with one accord in the lobby to survey the lecture activities. An orchestra played a seductive air and there were couples dancing in a mirrored room off the lounge. Then as Val caught sight of two of his ship-mates making their leisurely way toward the bar he started to bow and turn away to join them.

But even as he turned something in the lobby's perspective told him the brown eyes watching the dancers were filled with a wistful longing that teased mysteriously at his heart strings. She seemed so alone in the midst of a gaily indifferent gathering. A moment later he was amazed to hear himself offering her tea.

"The dimple deepened gratefully on her face. After an instant's hesitation she said, 'No tea, but I should adore a cocktail.'"

"A lady after my own heart," he approved as they made their way to a corner of the lounge. There, a Chinese barmaid in a white middie, brought Martinis and placed the glasses on a low table before them. "I'm terribly afraid you were cross with me today when I stole your sampan," the girl smiled up at him. "But, you see, I wanted a little ride on the water and that was the only way to get it."

As he lighted her elegant Val marveled at the length of her thick, straight lashes. "It didn't really matter," he answered, "since it would only have given a very charming friend a little more time to suggest I go jump into the river." He lighted his own cigarette, then inquired, "From one of the Southern States, aren't you?"

"From Charleston, South Carolina," she replied. "She pronounced it 'Charleston, South Carolina.'"

"I thought as much, although your accent doesn't drip gummy South quite as much as some." She had taken off her gloves and he saw that her small, sun-baked hands were guileless of rings, wedding or otherwise.

"Do you expect me to talk like a small-town Georgian and say, 'Suzah, you-all sash 'round ah sweet to treat me to thishere lovely likah?'" she drawled.

"So long as you call me Suzah, you have my permission to the rest in Polish if you like."

While her dark eyes approved him, the girl sipped her cocktail and permitted him to carry the conversation. But after a time he wearied of this effort so that he resented having a miniature, a miniature of a miniature, and he felt his interest waning into annoyance. She was decided, just another of those alluring little sirens who lull about inviting the homage of fatuous males. The veil said as much; so did the scarlet enameled nails and the gold cigarette case with a miniature of a miniature of a miniature. To contradict these signs, however, she had blushed when he stared at her lashes, and she was thrilled as a child over a Chinese lady who drifted past like a slim willow wand on a stream, wrapped in the long satin robes of the modern Chinese woman of fashion had evolved from the old costume.

"Oh, do look," the girl breathed when the painted little Oriental lady sank into a nearby chair and lighted a cigarette in a delicate jade holder. "Isn't she too lovely?"

He smiled at her evident interest, but not without a certain reserve. "I can't share your enthusiasm over these flat-faced little China dolls," he told her.

"But this one is so beautiful," she insisted. "She must be someone important, a great lady. Her hands are like creamy wax. Her eyes are simply glorious."

Val watched her anxiously. "It's a shame to disappoint you," he said, "but that happens to be a very notorious and rich young person of scandalous reputation and no family worth mentioning. Every time one of her kind love affairs goes sour, she tries to kill her own father, so far as you can see, with no success."

The girl was silenced only for a moment. "I don't care what anyone says about her reputation. I think she is simply beautiful."

"Oh, but it isn't Chinese blood that makes her so good-looking," Val said.

THEATRES How Certain Persons Carry Disease Germs on Bodies

AT THE CLIFTONA
"The Private Life of Don Juan," Douglas Fairbanks' first film in two years, comes to the Cliftona Theatre Wednesday.

Produced by Alexander Korda for London Films, the combination which gave us "The Private Life of Henry VIII" and "Catherine the Great," "The Private Life of Don Juan" tells in vivid and amusing fashion the story of how the incurable romanticist, deprived by a trick of fate of his name and reputation, wanders from one lovely creature to another, determined to prove to himself and the world that he's still the world's greatest lover.

The film offers Doug one of his typical swashbuckling, dandyish roles and is replete with vigorous swordplay and breath-taking stunts.

AT THE GRAND
James Cagney, while on location at North Island, San Diego, Calif., where he made "Devil Dogs of the Air," the Cosmopolitan production which Warner Bros. presents at the Grand Theatre, was confined to his hotel room for several days under doctor's orders. During his illness Director Lloyd Bacon has had to shoot scenes in which the star does not appear.

Cagney's illness developed from seasickness. He took his 60-foot sailboat to San Diego for the purpose of living on it during production, but gave it up.

AT THE CIRCLE
"Rescue Squad," starring Ralph Forbes, with Verna Hillie in the feminine lead, and Leon Wrayoff, Kata Pentzer, Sheila Terry and Frank Leigh in prominent roles, will open at the Circle Theatre on Tuesday for a two day run.

Announced as a high-tension romance-drama, with Forbes in the role of a collector of antiques who becomes entangled in a maze of mysterious and exciting events where he meets Norma Britt, a young woman who is on the point of running away with a philanderer, "Rescue Squad" is said to be one of the most unique and entertaining vehicles in which Forbes has ever appeared.

WHAT IS A RESTAURANT?
(Columbus Dispatch)
The art of precise definition is not so easy as it may seem. To produce an acceptable definition of a dog calls for ability in the art of lucid and exact statement.

Someone defined a bachelor as a mean, tight-fisted old skin-flint who has cheated a charming, beautiful, clinging woman out of a divorce. This may be true, but is it a fair definition?

The small boy defined a lie as an abomination unto the Lord but a very present help in time of trouble. Even George Washington might bear witness to the general acceptability of this statement.

Sometimes definitions go even further astray, as for instance that humorous description of President Taft as "a large body of good nature surrounded by friends who knew exactly what they wanted."

HOWARD WHITE CARRIES HOPE OF WESLEYAN

Must Come Through in Hurdles to Provide Chance
For Team in BAA.

By GILSON WRIGHT.

A three-way fight among Miami, 1934 champions, Ohio and Ohio Wesleyan, with Cincinnati as an outside possibility, sums up the tenth annual Buckeye conference track and field meet to be held Friday and Saturday at Ohio university, Athens. Marshall, the fifth member, will not compete this spring.

Miami, Ohio and Cincinnati are strong in the field events and the middle and long distance runs, but each is weak in the sprints and hurdles. Ohio Wesleyan, weak in the weights and middle distance runs, is exceptionally strong in the sprints, hurdles, broad and high jumps.

Bishops Have Chance

While Ohio Wesleyan has been beaten decisively by both Ohio and Miami in dual meets, the Bishops may score out their stronger opponents who will be engaging in cut-throat competition with each other in their strongest events.

Howard White, Ohio Wesleyan's ace hurdler and broad jumper, who scored 15 points in last year's meet as well as 18 two years ago, is the backbone of the Bishop team. Other Methodist stars are Gardner Allen, sprinter; Bob Ulrich, hurdler, and Bob Recker, high jumper.

Cincinnati, while not a likely team winner, will present a potent weight man in London Grant, Negro football star, who may win enough points to hurt Ohio and Miami in the weights and Ohio Wesleyan in the javelin.

Miami is given an edge as the

JONES SPECIALS LOSE FAST GAME

The Jones Specials, hard ball team, was defeated Sunday by the Red and White groovers on the Williamsport field. The score was 1 to 3.

Don Johnson pitched splendid ball giving only three hits. The teams have been re-matched to play here June 2.

The Chillicothe Advocates, fast colored team, will come here next Sunday to play at 2:30.

Other games booked for the Specials are: June 9 at Washington, C. H.; June 16 at Chillicothe; June 23 Washington, C. H. here.

Players being used by Manager Alfred Jones are: Jay Henry, Jr., c; D. Johnson, p; H. Grant, 1b; W. Jones, 2b; Jay Henry, Sr., ss; A. Jones, 3b; Coleman, lf; Harrison, cf; L. Hill, rf; M. Johnson, Lewis, John Jackson and C. Hill, utility.

likely winner of the meet even without Armand Oliver, Negro hurdle star, whose pulled tendon will keep him out of competition. The Redskins, though, may also lose Jim Cole, sprinter and broad jumper, through a leg injury, but it is believed he will be in condition for the meet. If Cole is out, Miami's chances will be lessened.

Ohio will bank on Jim Gilmore, miler and half-miler; Eldon Armbrust, hurdler, sprinter and pole vaulter, and Paul Halleck, weight star.

The records may fall in this week's meet. Recker already has broken the high jump mark of 6 feet, 1 1/2 inches, made by Hammond of Wesleyan in 1933, but he must repeat in the conference meet in order to put his performance in the record books. The other possible record-breaking feat may be done by Halleck of Ohio, Thompson of Miami or Grant of Cincinnati in the discus. The three have approached or bettered 130 feet this season. The record is 135 feet, 9 1/2 inches, made by Cheadle of Miami in 1932.

High Students Compete At Ohio State This Week

COLUMBUS, May 21.—Preparations were being made today by Ohio State university athletic officials to receive nearly 100 high school baseball, track, tennis and golf teams who are to participate in the annual state finals here Friday and Saturday.

More than 50 schools are expected to enter the track meet which will start Friday morning with elimination heats in the dashes and field events being held. The field events will be completed Saturday morning while the finals in the running events will be held Saturday afternoon.

Toledo Scott is defending Class A champion in track, while Delta captured the Class B honors last year. Elimination rounds in the "A" and "B" baseball tournament are to be held Friday and Saturday morning with the finals in each class scheduled for Saturday afternoon.

Cincinnati Withrow captured the Class A diamond honors in 1934 while Mayfield Heights is the defending B champ. Toledo Scott, Sandusky and Dayton Roosevelt will probably rule as favorites to annex the Class A track crown while Tiltonville, Warren, Wooster and Pomeroy have played a classy brand of ball in winning their respective district titles and are favored to fight it out for the state "A" laurels.

HASSETT HITS TO WIN GAME FOR 'BIRDIES'

First Sacker Unloads Homer
In Ninth Inning; Joe Sims
May Hurl Today.

COLUMBUS, May 21.—Their losing streak snapped, the Columbus Red Birds were expected to send Joe Sims, one of the Black's mound-men to the box today in an effort to continue their winning ways.

A "Dick Merriwell" play featured yesterday's game which the Birds won 2 to 1. John "Bud" Hassett, Bird first baseman, clouted for the circuit in the last half of the ninth with one man out to give the locals the decision.

The game was a battle of south-paws with Jim Mooney, late of the Cardinals and Giants halting the Millers while Bill Perrin, property of Cleveland, was almost as tough.

Manager Ray Blades was not certain of his mound choice although he said he might take a chance on Sims who has been doing mostly relief work. Tinning or Copeland, recent additions, are also possibilities.

The Minneapolis choice is uncertain.

BOSTON, May 21.—One and one-half games out of first place, the touring Cleveland Indians went after their third straight victory here today after rouncing the Boston Red Sox, 4 to 1, in the series opener yesterday afternoon.

Oral Hildebrand limited the Sox to one hit an inning, which sadly included a home run in the sixth by Rick Ferrell, while the Tribe was able to garner but seven safe bingles from Lefty Grove and Rube Walberg. The victory was the second the Indians have scored over Grove and the second Hildebrand has turned in this season.

Grove reserved to be left in the game, but was replaced by a pinch hitter in the eighth inning. While he was on the mound, the Indians made only four hits. The Tribe scored a run in the second on some Boston errors and a single, and another in the fourth on a double, sacrifice and single.

Willis Hudlin, the Indians' leading pitcher, faced the Sox today, and Fritz Ostermueller, young southpaw who handed the Tribe a 2 to 1 lacing at Cleveland two weeks ago, was to hurl for Boston.

CHOWS IN SPLIT

Pitchers for the Purina outfit were Raymond Smith and Pug Fowler.

GOLF FACTS

Number 619

ALEX MORRISON says:
A child is unafraid of many things until he is taught to fear them. Usually a person taking up golf is not afraid of such errors as slicing and topping. These mistakes are committed many times before they prompt fear.
In time the player's fear of doing something wrong becomes an obsession. He doesn't strive to do the correct thing half as hard as he does to minimize his errors. Fear rules every move he makes. Such is the mental attitude of many experienced golfers.
The few who have attained consistent success are those with the means of overcoming their fears. In fact, their success is really a conquest of fear. It isn't wise to say that you aren't afraid when results prove otherwise.
First of all, admit your fears. Then go to work on them one by one. It will do much to lower your scores.

Reports of that free-for-all battle between the Cubs and Pirates at Chicago recently drifted to Boston, and Rabbit Maranville, irrefragable 4 veteran of the Braves, decided to see just how tough Manager Charlie Grimm of the Cubs really was. Here the Rabbit is pictured, left, pulling the hard-boiled Chicago pilot down to his size. They're former teammates on the Cubs.

Landman Does Well

Big Everett Landman, New Holland's one man track and basketball team, did mighty well himself in the class B division of the central district track and field meet last Saturday at Delaware. He scored a first place in the broad jump traveling 19 feet 8 1/2 inches; he was second in the high jump the event being won by Black of University school at 5 feet 10 1/2 inches, and he took fourth place in the 220-yard dash.

Others Score, Too

Herb Dennis, of New Holland, won third in the broad jump and the New Holland team was second in the half mile relay. The Washington-two relay team knocked off third in the mile relay with Leist of Washington finishing fourth in the quarter-mile.

Golfers Tangling

An interesting golf meet was being staged on the Pickaway Country club course today with the Tigers meeting the other Central Buckeye league schools. The Red and Black quartet was expected to be John and Joe Jenkins, Chuck Styers and Harry Ritchey. Coach Pete Herberholz is in charge of the meet.

Plan "Rec" Meeting

With the water now all off the S. O. Electric Co. field and only mud to be cleared up, it is expected a meeting of recreation ball team managers will be called sometime the latter part of this week in preparation for opening of the league next Monday. Squirrel Jones' hard ball club is playing on the field Sunday. A new fence has been built and all concerned but old Jupe Flavius seem ready to go.

HELFRICH'S WIN

New Holland's Helfrich ball club won a 6-5 thriller from the Craven Drugs, Columbus, Sun day by a strong four runs in the eighth inning. Hicks and Saunders twirled for the winners.

OHIO FOURTH IN GOLF MEET

Michigan Assured of Another Title; Kocsis and Fischer Pacing Golfers.

CHICAGO, May 21.—The Western conference golf championship tournament went into the final 36 holes of play today at Kildeer with Michigan, the defending titleholder, enjoying a 27-stroke lead over its closest rival, Northwestern.

Two for individual honors were two Michigan stars, Charles Kocsis and Johnny Fischer. Fischer and Kocsis, both former titleholders, shot identical scores of 139, one under par, for the 36 holes yesterday.

Michigan was expected to win its fourth consecutive title today with little effort, the Wolverines having placed its four members in the first five in the individual list of scorers. Allen Saunders, who had 118, and Woodrow Malloy, with a card of 149, complete the Michigan team.

Illinois was third at the half-way mark with 624 strokes; Ohio State, 630; Minnesota, 631; Iowa, 633; Wisconsin, 636; Indiana, 642; Chicago, 655, and Purdue, 662.

SHUTE QUALIFIES IN CHICAGO MEET

CHICAGO, May 21.—Twelve professionals and two amateurs will represent the Chicago district in the national open golf tournament to be played at Oakmont, Pa., on June 6, 7 and 8.

Each shooting scores of 148 in the qualifying round yesterday at Medinah, H. Densmore Shute and J. P. "Sonny" Rouse led the field of 131 entrants. Shute, winner of the British open two years ago, turned in a card of 75-73-148 while Rouse had a 73-73-148. Both are professionals.

Others who made the grade were Tommy Armour, 153; Frank Walsh, 150; Dick Metz, 155; Jim Foulis, 153; Abe Espinoza, 152, and Bob McDonald, 154.

Six players wound up in a tie for fourteenth place, and in the playoff George Smith of Connecticut survived.

Families who will eventually want to send them through college are given only the brighter babies to adopt, says humane society director. In this godforsaken era, we can't see the connection.

Nick is a wire haired terrier. He belongs to George William Groom of W. Mound St. One day last week the call of Spring got into Nick's feet and he decided to do a little exploring. We assume, although he hasn't verified it, that he wandered too far from his familiar stoop and just couldn't find his way back.

But his owner knew what to do. He inserted a lost ad for Nick and here is what happened. "I lost my dog on Monday. Thursday I ran an ad in The Herald and my dog's whereabouts were immediately made known to me," said Mr. Groom last Friday morning. So Nick is back, and these columns have proved their value again.

SENATE, HOUSE TO INCREASE IN SIZE IN 1936

Four New Senators, Three New Representatives To Be Named At Polls.

COLUMBUS, May 21.—Ohio's 92nd General Assembly, to be elected next year, will consist of four more senators and three more lower house members than were elected to the present legislature. In the next Senate there will be 36 members, in the next House 138 members.

Attention was directed today to the impending membership increase by George Neffner, statistician in the office of Secretary of State George S. Myers, Ohio's chief election official.

Belmont, Mahoning and Franklin are the counties that will get one more lower house member than they have now. Belmont will elect two, Mahoning four, Franklin six.

Elect Two Senators

Four state senatorial districts, each now represented by a single senator, will elect two to the 2nd General Assembly. They are:

Third district—comprising Montgomery and Preble counties.

17th-18th-19th-28th district—comprising Knox, Morrow, Holmes, Wayne, Coshocton, Tuscarawas, Guernsey, Monroe and part of Noble counties.

20th-22nd district—comprising Belmont, Harrison, Jefferson and Columbiana counties.

30th-33rd district—comprising Wood, Putnam, Henry, Hancock, Fulton, Sandusky, Ottawa, Huron and Erie counties.

On the basis of the current legislative salary schedule the seven new senators and representatives will cost the taxpayers an additional $14,000, plus mileage and other expenses, during the 92nd General Assembly.

But if Gov. Martin L. Davey permits the Ogrin bill, passed last week, to become a law the cost of the new lawmakers' salaries alone will be $28,000. The Ogrin bill boosts members' salaries from $1,000 to $2,000 a year, and that of the lieutenant governor from $2,000 to $3,000 a year.

As explained by Statistician Neffner, the membership increases are due to population fractions the affected counties have in excess of the legislative apportionment

Ratio is 66,466

The apportionment ratio for the house of representatives is 66,466 persons, for the state senate 189,905, on the basis of a total Ohio population of 6,616,697 as shown in the 1930 census.

Every county, regardless of population, is entitled to one House member, but when any county has a fraction above the ratio for representative (66,466) so large that, being multiplied by five, the result is equal to one or more ratios, additional members are apportioned for such ratios among the five general assemblies of the decennial period between federal censuses.

RELIEF WAGE SCALE IS HIT

Ohio Labor Leaders Condemn Schedule Set Up Under Works Program.

COLUMBUS, May 21.—Ohio labor leaders rose up en masse today to condemn the new wage rate schedules established for this state under the federal $4,880,000,000 work relief program.

Branding the new schedules, created by President Roosevelt, unfair to labor, although Ohio is included in the area allocated the highest schedules of rates, officials of labor federations warned that the new rates may result in a general breakdown of higher wage schedules in private industry.

Ohio workers under the new federal program will receive the following rates of pay, based on the size of communities in which they work:

Only Civilian Conservation Corps members, employees of the state highway department working on projects under the federal program, present employees on work relief and PWA projects and supervisory employees are exempt from the federal wage schedules.

CCC workers will receive an average of $25 a month. State highway employees' wage rates will be fixed by the highway department, subject to approval of the federal bureau of roads, and workers on projects already under way under the work relief and PWA programs will receive the same schedules of wages they have been getting.

Angry Elephant KILLS TRAINER

HOLLYWOOD, May 21.—Gored by the tusks and trampled by the feet of a giant bull elephant, "Prince," Joe Reed, 40, veteran animal trainer, died in a hospital today.

Reed's injuries were sustained as he attempted to put the huge beast and seven companions through their paces, at the winter quarters of the Al G. Barnes circus at Baldwin park, in preparation for a jungle motion picture.

It was said that "Prince," the largest of the herd, always was regarded as a "rogue" and that Reed realized he was courting death when he worked with the beast.

Suddenly, witnesses said, the elephants stamped. Five headed for their barn, two females broke into the open. Reed attempted to quiet "Prince," and suddenly the beast turned on its trainer.

Bellowing Joe

Huey Long was telling the Senate that the "march" of farmers on Washington was not spontaneous, that it had been drummed up by the Administration.

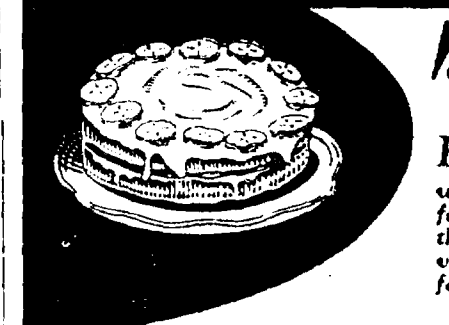

"Somebody says," shouted Huey, "they brought 400 of them from Louisiana."

Senator Joe Robinson, Administration defender, bristled. Advancing upon Long with clenched fists, he bellowed: "To whom does the Senator refer when he says they brought them from Louisiana?"

Long grinned from ear to ear. "The railroads," he replied.
